"The first time I worked with Tom was on a music video, almost entirely handheld on Red MX - Tom was the focus puller, and we didn't give him any rehearsals or marks, and somehow he was always sharp.

We got several more shots that day because of Tom's attention to detail and foresight, he kept the camera department moving quickly and took meticulous care of the gear.

We've worked together as often as possible since then, and I've seen Tom operate with the same quietly focused professionalism that he brings to any role."
